

Liberty Bell Museum

Dear Friend of the Museum:

Exciting things continue to happen at the Liberty Bell Museum. We hope we can count on your continued support to have another successful year.

We continue to host the Allentown School District third graders as an Educational Improvement Organization. This innovative program links history, language arts, and science and technology together while utilizing the Common Core Standards.

As Downtown Allentown continues to change we are happy to welcome our new neighbors and partner with them for various events. The museum will continue to be a place for the community to learn about their local history and how it is linked nationally and internationally.

Our changing exhibit area continues to attract walk-in crowds. The changing exhibits have also provided us the opportunity to be the gathering place for various events. Our current exhibit, Civil War 150: Celebrating the End of the War, takes a look at the end of the Civil War through pictures and artifacts.

Pip: the Mouse Before Christmas continues to draw crowds every holiday season. The 2014 Pip season was a huge success and we look forward to seeing all of the children back in the museum again this year.
