

Liberty Bell Museum

Dear Friend,

The ever-inspiring story of the Liberty Bell's historic journey to Allentown tells of the bravery that led courageous patriots to save what is now a symbol of our democracy. This story captures the imagination and reminds all who walk into our museum of our hard-won freedoms.

The Liberty Bell Museum offers an innovative educational program for elementary school students that links history, language arts, science and technology. We welcome families to a revitalized downtown Allentown through inspiring and enlightening community events. We promote the American ideals of freedom, liberty, civic responsibility and citizenship.

We know that you feel the same passion to preserve our history and the symbols of freedom for future generations. Your thoughtful support and generous contribution help us share our unique history as well as provide new exhibits and programs.

Up close and personal with history.

Our current exhibit is especially timely, created in consultation with local historian Frank Whelan: "Last One In: American Ideals in Conflict with American Attitudes." His lecture on March 15 explored some of the history of and the reactions to German, Jewish, Syrian and Hispanic people who immigrated to the Lehigh Valley. We also are featuring local artists like Amy Dorwang in the Trexler exhibit area, participating in the Hamilton District's "Third Thursday" celebrations in downtown Allentown. And of special note for the next Pip the Mouse season, our holiday exhibit will be in memory of Dr. George Creegan, "the man behind the mouse."

Parents and children share the magic of Pip!

Please support the Liberty Bell Museum and its programs with a generous donation! You also can order your tickets for our annual band concert on the enclosed form.

Help us to preserve this unique story and to keep sharing these American ideals.
